Attorney Deborah Weinstein Speaks at ALI-ABA program on Updating Employee Manuals

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, April 30, 2012: Deborah Weinstein, President of The Weinstein Firm, recently served as Planning Chair and Panelist for an ALI-ABA program entitled “Updating Employee Manuals 101: Doing it Right.” The program covered such topics as: evaluating the need for changes to a manual, transforming new developments into critical updates, protocols and notifications for clients and legal factors and considerations for compliance and risk control.

Other panelists were: Andrea Kramer of the Law Offices of Andrea R. Kramer, Jennifer Platzkere Snyder of Dilworth Paxson LLP, Steven Ludwig of Fox Rothschild LLP and Robert Haurin of The Weinstein Firm.

Ms. Weinstein is a highly respected employment law litigator, counselor, and thought leader. She has a national reputation for her work with employers—and has represented organizations of all sizes—businesses, public entities, law firms and nonprofits in state and federal courts and before administrative agencies, defending employment-related matters including discrimination, harassment, retaliation, leaves of absence, wrongful discharge, terminations, employment agreements, and more.

For the past 13 years, she has taught employment law as a lecturer at the Wharton Business School’s Department of Legal Studies and Business Ethics. She developed the innovative employment law course, The Law at Work: Employment Law for Managers. Ms. Weinstein is former Chair of the Philadelphia Bar Association’s Board of Governors and Editor-in-Chief of the association’s renowned magazine, The Philadelphia Lawyer. A member of the New Jersey and Pennsylvania Bars, Ms. Weinstein received her law degree, magna cum laude, from Temple University School of Law.

The Weinstein Firm is a boutique labor and employment law firm that helps employers protect their organizations – not just by ensuring that their companies’ actions are in accordance with the law, but also by guiding them on how to make a better world at work. The firm’s attorneys combine acumen in employment law with expertise in day-to-day employee relations and guidance, training, investigations, litigation, and management consulting.
